Altova Introduces a New Online Training Course: XML Schema 1.1

Learn the fundamentals of the XML Schema language and what's new in version 1.1.

BEVERLY, Mass., November 5, 2013 – Altova® (<http://www.altova.com>), creator of XMLSpy®, the industry leading XML editor, today announced the availability of a brand new Altova Online Training course on XML Schema 1.1 Technology.

This recent addition to a series of technical trainings available on Altova's web site is appropriate for beginners who need to master the fundamentals of the XML Schema language, as well as seasoned developers who are interested in learning about the new functionality added in XML Schema 1.1.

The latest version of the XML Schema standard, 1.1 adds new features aimed at making schemas more flexible and adaptable to business situations. XML Schema developers will need to come up to speed on these new features quickly, and this course makes it easy with focused, self-paced training modules and hands-on examples that reinforce key concepts.

As with all Altova Online Training technology courses, the XML Schema 1.1 training is provided for free, in easy to consume modules that include guided instruction, video-enhanced tutorials, quizzes, and resources for further study.

This course covers:

- Schema Languages
- Schema Core Concepts
- Built-in Datatypes
- User-defined Simple Types
- Complex Types
- Namespaces
- Identity Constraints
- Multiple Schemas
- New Features in XML Schema 1.1
- And more

The XML Schema 1.1 Technology course is the latest in Altova's series of technical training offerings, which include classes on XSLT, XBRL, and HL7, as well as product training topics.
