Your rights with respect to support as well as your upgrade eligibility depend on your decision to purchase a SMP and the level of SMP that you have purchased. All technical support is provided via a Web-based support form only, and there is no guaranteed response time. If you have purchased SMP, then solely for the duration of its delineated Support Period, you are eligible to receive the version of the Home-Edition Software edition that you have licensed and all maintenance releases and updates for that edition that are released during your Support Period. For the duration of your SMP's Support Period, you will also be eligible to receive upgrades to the comparable edition of the next version of the Home-Edition Software that succeeds the edition that you have licensed for applicable upgrades released during your Support Period.
